CorporateList (USD) in Content File Only for Science Catalog

It is important that if your catalog has a hosted enablement(s), you load ALL your pricing – private pricing as well as list pricing – via price type submission. Here are details.;

When creating a catalog submission for managing your hosted content, you have to create separate submissions for managing content (e.g. adding new products, editing Product Attribute value of existing product) and for managing pricing (e.g. adding private pricing for a new customer, deleting prices for selected products). The only exception being CorporateList pricing in USD currency. This can be loaded as part of the content submission. However, be aware that this functionality should be used only if you have a “Science Catalog” type catalog.

For a “Science Catalog”, since a given product is made available to all customers at same price, a hosted enablement is not created. For such catalogs, rather than load CorporateList in separate price submission, the functionality allows them to load it as part of content submission file. This functionality has been made available only for this purpose, as a convenience to Science Catalogs. Any catalog with hosted enablement(s) should have ALL type of pricing loaded using a price submission to avoid unexpected submission issues.

Only ‘Demo’ Pricing for SampleSQCustomer Site

The SampleSQCustomer site is made available to all of our suppliers so they can see how their catalogs work from a buyer’s perspective. As a result, it is important that if you are able to view your catalog products, they have a demo price value of $9.99. Be sure to NOT load your actual pricing as the site is accessible to all of our suppliers. If your catalog is set up for Level II punchout or Live Pricing, again, be sure to serve demo price values.

Since “Science Catalog” type catalogs do not have any hosted enablement, their products cannot be made available in the SampleSQCustomer site as doing so will expose their actual pricing for all users. But they can still access all functionality like a buyer which should help with catalog management.

Credentials for accessing SampleSQCustomer site are provided in the message text of the SupplierNews mailing.
